

21.1. NEAR, NEAREST, NEXT – Ne pas mélanger!

I asked the policeman where the... nearest post-office was.

"How come you were born in Yorkshire?" – "I wanted to be..... my mother. "

Excuse me, where is the toilet? It's urgent.

Psychiatrist: Now what is your problem, sir? Man: I feel so unimportant, people don't even notice I am there. Psychiatrist:, please.

John was asked what his favourite drink was. "The one," he replied.

21.2. Correcting mistakes. Corrige les phrases.

She asked me where am I going. She asked me where I was going......

We are living here since six years.

You will come, isn't it?

Why she looks at me like that?

I would have came if you asked me.

The mony was stole by a thief.

Where is the girl go?

21.3. Put the parts in the right order. Construis des affirmations correctes.

school / left / two years ago /Jesse /

Jesse left school two years ago. (Two years ago, Jesse left school)

cold / is / there / blowing / wind

.....

at the bar / yesterday / I didn't / Charlie / meet

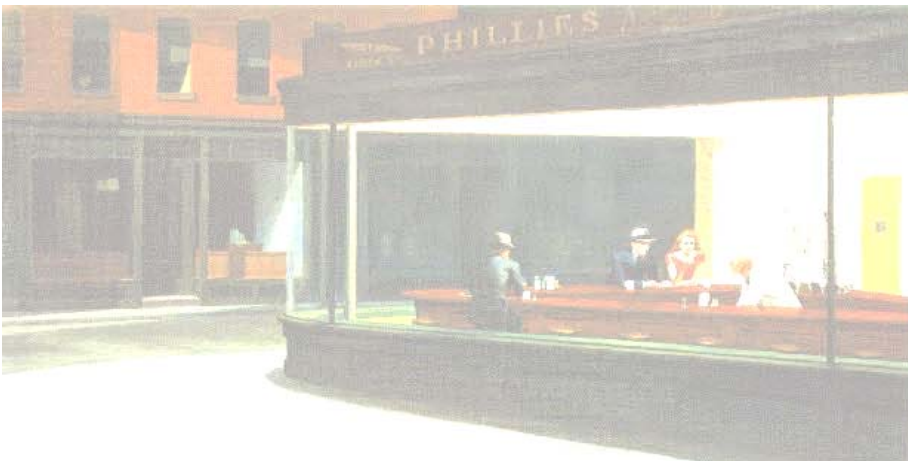

.....

so / it was / go out / we couldn't /

.....

before midnight / order / you must / your next drink

.....

En anglais les indications de temps (yesterday, two years ago, before midnight) se trouvent en fin (ou en tête) de phrase:
I met Charly at the bar yesterday. Yesterday I met Charly at the bar.