

The ..... was Becky Thatcher's birthday, and all Becky's friends were .....

'It's going to be ....., ' Becky told Tom.

'We're going to have a picnic ....., and after that,
..... McDougal's Cave.'

So ....., a big boat took Becky, Tom, and

..... down the river. .... some older children on the boat too, but all the ..... stayed at home. Picnics are better
.....!

And it was a very happy, ..... picnic.

After the picnic, the children took out ....., and ran up the .....

..... The mouth of the cave was dark, and ..... the children were afraid at first. But caves are exciting, so ..... everybody went in.

McDougal's Cave was very, very big, with ..... tunnels and rooms. The tunnels went up, down, and ..... for miles. You could walk
..... in McDougal's Cave. ...., but many people knew the tunnels near the door. You ..... in these tunnels.

Tom, ....., knew them well.

For hours the children walked and ran ....., up and down the tunnels, in and out of the rooms.

..... they came out, and walked down the hill to the boat, .....

When the boat ..... in St Petersburg, it was dark. Huck Finn

..... the boat, but he did not ..... the picnic. He did not go to birthday picnics, of course, ..... the mothers of St Petersburg did not like him. But

..... Huck was only ..... treasure - Injun Joe's treasure. Injun
Joe was ..... by the river, and Huck waited in the street

..... the building.

'.....,' he thought, 'Injun Joe's cross is in there. And the box of money. I must
..... and watch. I can tell Tom ..... tomorrow.'

But Injun Joe ..... At midnight it began to rain, and Huck ..... all night in the cold street.
